Reflexology

A method that uses reflex points on the feet and occasionally on the hands by using a variety of specific pressure points. The treatment starts with a mini warm up foot massage and ends in the same manner. The feet are like a map of your whole body and by releasing tension improve circulation to bring about the body's own natural balance. Research shows that when a specific point, (a reflex point), is stimulated, an impulse is transmitted through the nerve fibres and energy pathways. This impulse creates a reaction to stimulate or relax the appropriate parts of the body.

Reflexology can...
